

Final render settings

Contributed by Ryan Olson
Friday, 09 March 2007
Last Updated Wednesday, 07 November 2007

This tutorial is a guide to the settings that you should check before doing your final rendering out to a file. These settings will ensure that you get the best possible image quality, and should be used for any renderings submitted for class assignments.